GEN. LAWRENCE IN THE CITY.

The New Adjutant General Passed Through Here Yesterday.

EN ROUTE TO CADIZ.

Assistant Adjutant General Has Not Yet Been Appointed,

Gen. Henry R. Lawrence, the new Adjutant General, accompanied by Hon. L. P. Head and Mr. Hicks, of Paducah, passed through the city yesterday, returning from Frankfort.

General Lawrence first came into public life as a page in the General Assembly. He was elected by the Democrats of Trigg county to a seat in the lower house at the session of 1902, and again in 1904 and 1906.
He is a newspaper man, being editor of the Cadiz Record. He is about 30 years old, handsome and unmarried.

The office of Assistant Adjutant General is yet vacant, having been so since the promotion of Gen. Haly to be Adjutant General two years ago, and it will very probably be filled within the next few days.

The first official act of Gen. Lawrence was to issue an order to the members of the Guard, giving notice of his appointment. The order reads as follows:

State of Kentucky, Adjutant General's office, Frankfort, April 19, 1906.—General Orders No. 2.—The following executive order is published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

April 19, 1906.—Executive Orders:
Gen. Percy Haly, Adjutant General of Kentucky, having tendered his resignation to enable him to accept another position, the resignation is hereby accepted, same to take effect April 3, 1906.

Henry R. Lawrence, of Trigg county, is hereby appointed Adjutant General, with the rank of Brigadier General, vice Percy Haly, resigned, said appointment to take effect this date.

J. C. W. BECKHAM,
Governor of Kentucky.
HENRY R. LAWRENCE,
Adjutant General.

SUCCEEDS HALY.

Speaker Lawrence Becomes Adjutant General.

Frankfort, Ky., April 20.—Speaker Henry R. Lawrence, of Trigg county, succeeds Percy Haly as adjutant general of the state of Kentucky. Governor Beckham on Thursday made known the appointment. Speaker Lawrence has been a strong administration man. General Haly becomes chairman of the newly created board of charities.

Officer Duke Resigns.

Policeman Ivy P. Duke tendered his resignation to the Mayor on the 18th to take effect last night. Officer Duke was elected four months ago and has made an exceptionally capable officer and his retirement is a distinct loss to the force. He will resume his trade, that of a carpenter, at which he can make more money and not do night work. The Mayor assured him that his resignation was accepted with regret.

The First to Ride.

Soon after the patrol wagon arrived Wednesday, Chief Roper had a warrant sworn out for Dick Cooley.
The patrol wagon was sent for him and he had the honor of being the first prisoner to ride in the new wagon.

Farmers,

Don't forget your big meeting here next Monday. The county chairman and the committee want you to come.
It means more money for your tobacco.

WHOLE OF SAN FRANCISCO HEAP OF SMOKING RUINS.

Furious Flames Rage Until Nothing is Left of the Beautiful City by the Golden Gate and Lives Lost Are Innumerable.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT PROMPTLY LENDS ASSISTANCE.

Congress Has Appropriated $1,000,000 to Help the Dying, Homeless and Starving Hundreds—Famous Leland Stanford University and Other Great Structures Ruined—Loss to Property Estimated at $500,000,000 Now and Time Only Adds Horror to the Situation—Nearby Towns Also Suffer Great Losses.

SEVERAL HOPKINSVILLE PEOPLE IN THE RUINED CITY.

San Francisco, April 20.—At last the fire was checked this morning at Van Ness Avenue and Mission street though it is still raging on Russian hill and towards the bay.

Over three hundred thousand people are homeless. Only about one fourth of the city will be saved.

Efforts to relieve the famine are succeeding. The majority of the people spent last night in tents on the hills, afraid to trust themselves to the houses which were still unharmed.

Loss of life is estimated at from 2,000 to 3,000, although last figures are thought to be exaggerated, and from 1,000 to 1,500 to be nearer correct.

The property loss is estimated at $500,000,000. The entire business section is a mass of ruins.

The Horror of the Situation.

Since the announcement Wednesday morning of the frightful earthquake that seized and leveled to the ground San Francisco, the pride of the whole Pacific slope, and the 9th largest city in the Union, every hour has added new horror. The picturesque old town that came into creative existence by reason of the finding of a gold nugget in Sutter's Mill race, has practically been swept from the face of the map, and it is doubtful if a hundred years will suffice to restore it to its former commercial importance and social splendor.

The loss of life, when the grand total is summed up, will doubtless be appalling, as it is now practically certain that at least 500 persons perished, while many times this number were seriously, many fatally, injured.

In the matter of property losses, the latest dispatches give out the news that the city has been and is now being ravished, north, east, south and west, by all-devouring flames, which no human agency has so far been able to in the least check.
The fire losses are estimated to run from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The entire business district has been destroyed by fire; the famous Chinatown is a thing of the past; Nob Hill, where lived the multi-millionaires, is a mass of ruins; in fact, the entire city has surrendered to a sea of fire which will be conquered only when there is nothing more to destroy.

South of Market street, where ran the city for several miles, there remains mainly ashes and smoke. It is in this section of the city that the middle classes have built their homes, into which many put their all.

Golden Gate Park, admittedly the finest playground in the United States, has been converted into a camping ground, as has the Presidio.
There countless thousands of men, women and children are huddled, powerless to do more than gaze with fearsome awe upon this modern Pompeii.

From other sections of California, within a radius of an hundred miles of the destroyed city, there comes nothing but the most dreadful tales of death and disaster.

Santa Rosa, in the beautiful vine-clad Napa valley, has been razed to the ground, and reports indicate heavy loss of life.

Palo Alto, made famous by reason of its holding Leland Stanford, Jr., University, is a mass of ruins, though happily only two lives were lost. The university buildings are wrecked.

San Jose, twenty miles below Palo Alto, is badly damaged by the earthquake, the Hall of Records and the Hall of Justice being entirely destroyed. Ten people are known to have been killed in the earthquake.

From as far south of San Francisco as Santa Barbara come meager reports of the direful effects of the siesmic disturbance, and when the final summary is made up, April 18, 1906, will probably go down in history as the most tragic day of the last three centuries.

Congress has taken quick hold of the situation by voting $1,000,000, while from nearly every city in the Union has come offers of substantial aid.

Surpasses Chicago Fire.

Chicago, Ill., April 19.—If the published reports are confirmed, as it now seems probable they will be, the calamity in San Francisco will exceed in magnitude and horror that which occurred in Chicago on October 8 and 9, 1871. At the time of the great fire this city had a population of about 320,000, while San Francisco now has nearly 375,000. The loss of life in Chicago was comparatively small.
The number of dead was never definitely ascertained, but it did not exceed 200. In the California metropolis it is believed that upward of 1,000 persons have perished and it is known that thousands have been injured.

In the matter of destroyed property the figures are more equal. The loss in Chicago amounted to $200,- 000,000, that in San Francisco is estimated at the same figure. Here 17,- 450 buildings were burned and 70,000 persons made homeless. In San Francisco the buildings are said to be 30,- 000 and the number of homeless is reported to be 150,000.

How much assistance will be required by the victims of the Pacific coast disaster may be estimated from the fact that it took nearly $7,000,000 in contributions from the outside world to tide the people of Chicago over the period of distress.

The Galveston calamity surpassed that in San Francisco in the number of lives lost, the dead numbering more than 6,000, but the property loss was only about $12,000,000.

Magnitude of Calamity.

San Francisco, April 20, via Oakland.—The magnitude of the calamity that has befallen San Francisco became apparent Thursday when a red sun arose and dissipated the pall of darkness that hung over the stricken
